In 1993, under my father's guidance, I became an antiquarian bookseller. In 2002, over 20 years ago, I founded my auction house, with which I continue to achieve the greatest and most significant successes in my home market.

Given the specificities of the business, I have always needed to rely on tools that were custom-built and designed by me.

In the process, I developed my own app, fell in love with the beauty of a text editor, and the wonders of a callback function.

I am Nuno, and after more than 30 years with books, I wanted to become a developer.
